CHILDREN NOT

LEGITIMATIZED

SUPREME COURT HOLDS THAT

SUBSEQUENT MARRIAGE OF

PARENTS IS UNAVAILING IN SUCH CASES.

The Supreme Court this morning decided the case of Annie Kealoha and Keoni Williams vs. William R. Castle trustee, on a question reserved by the First Circuit Court. The proposition involved was the payment or non-payment to the petitioners of some trust funds, and the principal question is decided as set forth in the syllabus as follows:

"Children of an adulterous intercourse not legitimized by parents' subsequent marriage."

This following a decision in the Fourth Hawaiian reports, Chief Justice Frear in concurring with the decision today says:

"I concur on the ground that, although I think that decision in the Kekula (4th Hawaiian) case erroneous, we ought not to override it under all the circumstances."

The decision of the court, by Associate Justice Hartwell, says in part:

"We are not prepared to hold that the Kekula decision was wrong. Under the Constitution and laws in force at the time of that decision the court had power to declare a statute unconstitutional which it deemed to be contra bonos mores."

"In the exercise of its discretionary power the court in the Kekula case could properly have held that the act as applied to the facts of that case was unconstitutional because in such application the act would be immoral, or the same conclusion could be reached, as in fact was reached, by considering that the legislature did not intend such application by the Act. Whether we should take the same view as was taken by the court in that case or not, the decision is a precedent which we do not see fit to disregard. Nor are we prepared to say that if the question were now presented de novo we should take any other view of the matter than was taken in that case."

T. M. Harrison appeared for plaintiffs and A. G. M. Robertson for defendants.

THE ALAMEDA

CARGO ARRIVES

BULK OF STUFF SHIPPED ON THE

WRECKED VESSEL BROUGHT BY THE NEVADAN YESTERDAY.

Crammed with freight, 15,545 packages of which were from the S. S. Alameda's cargo, the S. S. Nevada arrived yesterday morning from San Francisco. The vessel struck a gale the first day after leaving San Francisco and was put out of her course so as to get easier weather.

Particular interest was attached to the arrival of the Nevada for she brought most of the cargo that had been saved from the S. S. Alameda after the latter vessel went on the rocks off Fort Point. The Alameda's cargo was billed in bulk to W. G. Irwin & Company, the agents, and was placed in a separate compartment of the Nevada so that the local agents of the Oceanic S. S. Company will attend to the distribution of the Alameda's freight. It has been decided that none of the Alameda's cargo will be distributed until tomorrow morning.

The freight is being gone over carefully and a list of all of the stuff that arrived is being prepared for the local company. The local agents received the complete list of all the stuff that was shipped originally by the Alameda and the new list will be compared to show how much stuff was not sent by the Nevada. It is known that none of can be laid without any expert labor. Full illustrated directions are given which can be followed by any one.

This puts Flintkote within reach of all. Its light weight is important, as in new buildings, lighter roof supports can be used, and on buildings more or less weakened by age Flintkote can be used with safety where the ordinary heavier roofs would be dangerous.

Leaks can be easily located and made tight with little trouble.

Flintkote is odorless and will not taint rain water in any way and water from Flintkote roofs can be used for all domestic purposes.

Vermin will not attack it, and it is not affected by acids, alkalis or fumes of any kind.

Rex Flintkote will please you, try it.
